

Press Consulting: Chris Moore

Digital Consultant

Biography

With experience in both business & IT roles (the majority in Financial Services) across a 20-year career, Chris has an excellent track record of delivering successful outcomes for clients and their customers.

His expertise encompasses the entire software development lifecycle and he has extensive experience in strategy, portfolio planning & prioritisation, enterprise & solution architecture, analysis, design & delivery of mission critical software systems. Chris is not only skilled at navigating challenges with legacy systems, new technology and disparate project teams, but his business & IT background also ensures a pragmatic, cost effective & delivery focussed approach. He is able to solve complex problems and communicate their potential solutions to stakeholders across all levels of an organisation.

Since joining Altus, Chris has helped clients define their architectural roadmap and transition state architecture; carried out market scans and recommendations for best fit IT solutions; helped software providers adapt their solutions to enable their entry to the UK market and performed various solution architect roles within client project teams.
