Sam Turner – Consultant

Biography

Sam has been working in financial services for 15 years, with a particular focus on platforms for the last 8.

Prior to joining Altus, he worked for a large wrap platform and life insurer, as well as more niche platform providers with whom he held various roles ranging from operations and change, to propositional development and distribution. Sam has been involved with the design and launch of two major platform propositions, as well as having managed numerous change projects relating to platform operations. Sam works with a range of Altus clients to understand the current and future platform landscape, offering informed insight into the requirements necessary for any successful platform business.
