Patrick Hayward – Consultant

Biography

Patrick joined the Altus General Insurance (GI) practice as a business architect in 2017, having worked in the industry for 10 years in technical claims and legal roles.

He supports Altus insurer clients with large-scale strategic, operational and regulatory change projects. Patrick actively supports thought leadership at Altus through industry research, developing white papers, engaging with new technology suppliers and contributing to trade publications. He is working with Insurtech UK members and the wider Altus team to map the members of this growing trade body against a single industry framework.

He is a board member for the Society of Claims Professionals, through which he acts as a mentor for rising stars on the CII New Generation programme, and has carried out expert practitioner reviews for multiple CII study texts.
